SAMUEL NEWHOUSE OFFERS FINE PRIZE

Magnificent Silver Tea Set to the Lady Winning at Tennis.

ENNIS is the fad. It has struck Salt Lakers on the right spot, and is here for the present season, with good prospects of becoming one of the most popular of sporting pastimes, The ladies at the Country club who formerly took so much delight in wielding the golf club have now descried it for the racket. For the past month they have been playing tennis daily, with the resuit that some of them have now become very expert. As to who is the champion no one knows as yet, but many people are auxious to find out. Among these is Samuel H. Newhouse, and so strong is his desire that he has decided to arrange a desire that he has decided to arrange a tournament and give the victor a magnificant silver tea set. The prize is a very attractive one, and as a consequence most all of the ladies have decided to try their lack at swinging the racket.

The B street tennis aggregation has been considerably strengthaned of late by the return of several of its best players. Monday afternoon Frank Roberts, Utah's champion tennis player, made his first appearance since his return from his wedding trip. He showed up in his old-time form. In a hettly-contested robin, he was beaten by James Salisbury, who has just recently returned from Cornell, where he won the college championship in the tennis singles. James is a accompanied by his brother, Walker, who is also an expert player. He won the loving cup offered by the B street club to the winner of the Fourth of July turnament. Last Saturday Walker won out in a tennis tournament played at the Country club. His final compelitor was Leon Chandler, who was not defeated without a very epirited contest. The prize offered was an antique silver clagarette case.

The B street plays are planning for a big State tournament. In the immediate future they intend to call a meeting for the purpose of organizing teams throughout the State.

Bicycle Programme Tonight.

Bicycle Programme Tonight.

Two redeeming exhibition motor races and a three-cornered unlimited team pursuit race will constitute the features of tonight's bicycle races. J. M. Chapman will make an effort to capture the world's motor-paced record. While training yesterday afternoon he clipped several seconds off the present track record—120—and it looks as though he could, by a little extra work, capture the coveted world record mark. Earl Staley, who will ride a match motof race with E. B. Heagren for a $200 side bet next Friday evening, will make his first appearance on his new motor. He will reel off several miles just to show the people that he can go some. The three-cornered unlimited pursuit race will be the exciting and novel event of the evening. Each team will start seventy-three yards apart and will keep on going until caught and passed. The riders are evenly matched and have paired off as follows: S. V. Palmer and O. E. Emery, Orlande Stevens and J. P. Gum and Hollister and Staver.

The other events will be: Two-mile lap handicap race, professional, twenty riders starting at once, mile handicap, amateur; half-mile open, amateur.

Parliamentary Mixed Metaphors.

It was not a mixed metaphor, but it was none the less delightful, when a representative of an industrial constituncy, in a debate on the legal position of trade unions, said: "The interests of the employers and employed are the same nine times out of ten—I will even gay ninety-nine times out of ten." In the same debate, Mr. Asquith, who is rarely guilty of such lapses, said that, owing to the discussion being very strictly limited by one of the standing orders, "our tongues are field, our hands are fettered, and we are really beating the air to no purpose." They were not mixed metaphors, again, but the House approached the researches. appreciated the remarks at their full appreciated the remarks at their full value when Mr. John Burns, in a discussion on the children's employment bill on June 23, said, in a weary, protesting tone: "I will now repeat what I was about to say when the honorable member interrupted me"; and when an ardent supporter of the sugar convention bill declared that "the West India. action bill declared that "sugar conven-tion bill declared that "the West Indies would now have a future which they had never had in the past." Mr. Ritchie on one occasion spoke of a "thorny sub-ject which had long been a bone of contention among own, a member described the West African territories in the neighborhood of Lake Tchad" as a slumbering voicano which at any mo-ment a spark might set affame," and a conservative member, in an eloquent speech which aroused much attention, denouncing the rapes of the core. denouncing the repeal of the corn tax, and complaining of the plight in which he was placed by being called upon first to defend and then to condemn that tax, reached the height of his denunciation in the following sentence: "The Chancellor of the Exchequer has denuded us of every rag of the principles which we have been proclaiming from the house-But I am Inclined to think that the best blunder of the session stands to the credit of another ministerialist who the credit of another ministribute who noticed while he was speaking that a Liberal member was showing signs of dissent. "Ah!" he said, "the honorable member opposite shakes his head at member opposite shakes his head at that. But he can't shake mine!" sees so well what he meant. It is not a little strange that, of all the Irish "bulls" which I heard during the session—and those quoted here are only a selection—not one was perpetrated by an Irish member. It was an Irishman, however, though not a Parllamentarian, who said to me not long ago, speaking of a mutual acquaintance that "the worst of So-and-so is that he never opens his mouth without treading on somebody's corns." This, of cours recalls the famous bull-attributed, is it not, to Sir Boyle Roche? "Blank never opens his mouth without putting his foot in it." My specimen may be less perfect, but I can guarantee it to be genuine. For sheer concentration of mixed metaphor there is no recorded in-stance, perhaps, which surpasses a par-agraph in a telegram from the Paris correspondent of the Dally News, print-ed in that newspaper on November 24, 1999. "Tonight the prefect of police." It runs, "is taking strong measures to prevent uproarlous scenes in front of the Hotel Scribe, but will hide his hand. It would be better to show it. The encmies of the republic are making use of Mr. Kruger to kick it over. The Republicans, afraid of going against the stream, tack. The Socialists alone have blood in their veins, and even they are too liable to run off the rails."—An M. P. in the Spectator.

The World's Tallest Building.

The World's Tallest Building.

The tallest inhabited building in the world is the Park row building in New York. It covers about 15,000 square feet of ground, and is thirty stories high. The distance from the curbing to the cornice is 25 feet, to the top of the towers. 20 feet, to the top of the flagstaff, 447, the depth of the foundations below curbing is seventy-five feet, making a total distance from the foundations to the top of the flagstaff, 52 feet. Some 900 tons of steel was used in the frame, the weight of the structure is about 20,000 tons, and with the live load it is estimated to be about 65,000 tons. The building stands as firm that a plumbline fails to show the slightest tremor, even during the highest gales. The number of offices in the building is 250, windows 2180, doors 1770, electric lights 7500, tensants 3500. By notual count the ten elevator cars travel sixteen miles an hour, and carry in ten hours $140 passengers. It is said that one of the car starters knows each tenant and clerk, and the floor and room in which each is located. The cost of the building was about $3,500.000, and the gentals each year are $18,000. The expenses, including interest, are $251, 225, and the surplus is $36,765.—Prof. A. W. Prench.

Walking on the Ceiling.

Walking on the Ceiling.

Few people, probably, know what it is that enables flies to walk on the ceiling. It has been supposed that their ability to do so was due to the fact that each of their feet is a miniature air-pump. This theory was found to be unsound, and it was then explained that the feat was made possible by means of a viscous substance which exuded from the hairs on their feet. This theory also was abandoned as being only partly accountable for the facts, and the preferred explanation is that flies are enabled to walk upside down on smooth substances by the help of capillary adhesion. An investigator has found by a series of nice calculations—such as the weighing and measuring of hairs—that a fly would be upheld by capillary attraction were it four-ninths as heavy again as it is. Each fly is supposed to be furnished with from 10,000 to 12,000 minute foot-hairs, these exude an only fluid, and it is because of the repulsion between a watery surface and this olly liquid that a fly finds it difficult to mount a dampened glass.—Harper's Weekly, Deserted Dalny.

"Divine Providence has summoned "Divine Providence has summoned Russia to contribute toward the friendly intercourse of the peoples of the Occident with those of the Orient."

Thus wrote the Czar of all the Russias in his edict, issued July 30, 1899, commanding there should be erected the most remarkable with the contribution. the most remarkable city in the world. Dainy, which stands a little to the east builded"-and the thing was done. Dainy, a terminal on the sea for the great Trans-Siberian railway, was opened to commerce in December, 1901. Twenty-three thousand workmen daily helped to bring into existence this modern City of Aladdin. Mr. de Witte, the then Russian Minister of Finance, was the slave of the Czar's lamp. Twenty million dollars was spent like of Port Arthur, on the Liaotung pe-rater on Dainy. By imperial decree it sprang up alnost in a year. A most powerful enemy has made it desolate almost in a single night.

Read the latest dispatches from the theater of war.

"The Russian troops have evacuated

"Only fifteen inhabitants remain in Dainy." Dalny is deserted. It was the paradox of cities in its ery creation. It broke all the natural laws of a city's growth. It was forced into existence, not because men, in the course of human progress, found it convenient to meet and trade there, but because there must be a city at the end of the rallway then building. The extraordinary fact was that this Russian railway, which was one of the greatest factors in making Manchuria virtually a Russian province, was pos-sible only by the labor of the Chinese hemselves. Thousands of Chinese coolies under undreds of Russian architects, over-eers and engineers, built Dainy. Now hinese bandits are tearing up the rail-

Truly Dalny was the mushroom of cities. Scurcely had it been vitalized by throughng citizens than it withered.

Mr. de Witte looked into the future Air de witte looked into the future. But he did not look far enough. Peer-ing dimly into the future, the genius of the Czar made every possible arrange-ment for the personal comforts and business success of Dainy's inhabitants Streets, drainage and electric wires were laid down, electric lights and telephones were installed, parks, gardens, electric trams, municipal buildings, hos-pitals, schools, prisons, docks and jetties were provided before a single lot of land was offered to the public to pur-chase. The original estimate of the huge work was $15,000,000. It was soon exceeded.

That Dainy would flourish seemed as That Dalny would flourish seemed as certain as anything mundane can be. Its harbor is ice free, a great factor for success in North China. New-chwang, the only other Manchurian port, is frozen fast for more than four months in the year. Besides, Dalny is a free port and it possesses all the conveniences of a modern city.—New York World.
